Toronto, ON – February 5, 2013 – H&R Real Estate Investment Trust and H&R Finance Trust (collectively “H&R”) (TSX: HR.UN) and Primaris Retail Real Estate Investment Trust (“Primaris”) (TSX: PMZ.UN) and the KingSett Capital led consortium today announced that H&R and Primaris, together with PRR Investments Inc., have amended their previously announced arrangement agreement (dated January 16, 2013). Under the amended agreement (the “Amended Agreement”) the KingSett Capital led consortium will participate in the transaction by acquiring certain properties from Primaris. The KingSett Capital led consortium, which consists of certain KingSett Capital managed funds, Ontario Pension Board and RioCan REIT, will acquire 18 Primaris properties pursuant to separate purchase agreements between Primaris and the consortium members.

Tom Hofstedter, CEO of H&R said, “We have created a stronger transaction for both H&R and Primaris unitholders. With this transaction, H&R will become Canada’s largest and leading diversified real estate investment trust, emulating the preferred real estate investment model adopted by large pension plans worldwide. The revised transaction will be accretive to H&R’s funds from operations, reduce its overall leverage ratio and increase market capitalization and liquidity, while allowing H&R to acquire a portfolio of high quality Canadian shopping centres and a valuable management platform. Overall, this is a transformational transaction for H&R that provides considerable benefits for our unitholders.”

John Morrison, CEO of Primaris said, “From the onset of our process we set out to deliver superior value for our unitholders. The result of the two bidders for Primaris joining in this amended transaction has created an opportunity that provides a higher price than what was previously agreed upon. For the benefit of our unitholders, our process has clearly maximized value. The higher cash consideration in the amended transaction provides increased liquidity, meanwhile for those unitholders electing H&R Units, the transaction allows them the ability to maintain their investment in the REIT sector in a tax efficient manner. We are pleased with the Amended Agreement and the value delivered through the process for our unitholders and other stakeholders.”

Jon Love, Managing Partner of KingSett Capital said, “We are pleased to be partnering with H&R and working with Primaris on this amended transaction. We believe this is a very good outcome for all involved.”

KingSett Capital led consortium members Ontario Pension Board and RioCan also commented on the amended transaction:

Mark Fuller, CEO of Ontario Pension Board said, “The amended transaction agreement continues to meet our deal objectives of acquiring high quality real estate assets in support of our long-term investment strategy to increase our exposure to private market investments.”

Ed Sonshine, CEO of RioCan REIT added: “We are pleased to be participating in the amended transaction and the acquisition of interests in two prominent regional malls within the GTA. The properties we have committed to purchase are fully aligned with our strategy and will further strengthen RioCan’s portfolio of enclosed malls.”

Transaction Details

Pursuant to the Amended Agreement, unitholders of Primaris will be entitled to elect to receive $28.00 in cash, subject to an aggregate cash consideration of approximately $1.28 billion or 1.166 stapled units of H&R (“H&R Units”), with approximately 65.2 million H&R Units to be issued in aggregate.

- In the event that Primaris unitholders elect either more or less cash or H&R Units than are available, the total consideration shall be prorated, with the actual consideration mix to be received by each unitholder adjusted to reflect the total elections
- Assuming full proration (all Primaris unitholders elect cash or all Primaris unitholders elect H&R Units), Primaris unitholders will receive $12.58 in cash and 0.642 H&R Units for each Primaris unit
- Based on H&R’s 20-day VWAP ended January 15, 2013 (the last trading day prior to the announcement of the prior H&R/Primaris transaction) of $23.99, the value of the fully prorated consideration received under the Amended Agreement will be $27.98 per Primaris unit, which represents a premium of approximately 21.4 percent to Primaris’ closing price of $23.04 on December 4, 2012 (the last trading day before KS Acquisition II LP announced its intention to make an offer for Primaris). Upon completion of the amended transaction, Primaris unitholders will own approximately 25 percent of H&R
- The amended transaction is structured so holders of Primaris units who are resident in Canada and who hold their Primaris units as capital property will receive their H&R Units on a substantially tax-deferred rollover (the receipt of H&R Finance Trust units, expected to be less than 4 percent of the total unit consideration, will be taxable)

H&R will acquire a $2.7 billion portfolio of 17 of Primaris’ existing shopping centres along with a further 9 properties valued at approximately $377 million that Primaris intends to acquire in advance of the close of the H&R and KingSett transaction. The remaining properties in Primaris’ existing portfolio will be acquired by members of the KingSett Capital led consortium and are valued at approximately $1.9 billion, including assumed debt.

The previously announced KingSett Capital led consortium offer has been withdrawn in accordance with its terms and affiliates of KingSett Capital that own approximately 7 percent of Primaris units have agreed to support the Amended Agreement.

The Board of Trustees of Primaris and H&R have unanimously agreed to vote their units in favour of the Amended Agreement and to recommend that their respective unitholders vote in favour of the transaction.

Benefits to Primaris

- The amended transaction is financially superior for Primaris unitholders with the value of the consideration (assuming full proration) to be received per Primaris unit increased to $27.98, compared to $27.33 under the prior agreement (based on H&R’s 20-day ended January 15, 2013)
- Provides Primaris unitholders with an option to retain ownership in the Canadian enclosed shopping centre asset class or to elect to receive an immediate cash payment, subject to proration, described above

- The increase in aggregate cash consideration of approximately $578 million provides additional liquidity for those Primaris unitholders that elect to receive cash consideration
- Improves distributions by 24 percent from the current annualized rate of $1.27 to $1.57 for those Primaris units that are exchanged for H&R Units
- Substantially preserves the value of the professional management platform developed over the last 10 years

Benefits to H&R

- Unique opportunity to acquire a portfolio of 25 high quality Canadian shopping centres along with a strong professional management platform
- Financially attractive transaction that is expected to be approximately $0.02 accretive to Funds From Operations per unit and results in a deleveraging of H&R's balance sheet from 52.1 percent to approximately 51.1 percent Debt to Fair Value
- Maintains H&R's liquidity with cash available from undrawn bank facilities of approximately $550 million
- Broader portfolio diversification by geographic region, asset class and tenant base
- Increased market capitalization will result in substantially enhanced liquidity for unitholders
- Combines two businesses having similar philosophies with respect to asset and tenant qualities and a disciplined approach to real estate investing

Additional Details

- The transaction continues to be structured as a Plan of Arrangement and is subject to the approval of 66  $\frac{2}{3}$  percent of Primaris units voted at a special meeting of Primaris unitholders and a majority of H&R Units voted at a special meeting of H&R unitholders
- Primaris to pay cash proceeds to its unitholders by way of a redemption of units using the proceeds from the KingSett asset sale transactions
- Special unitholder meetings of Primaris and H&R expected to be held in late March
- The transaction is subject to regulatory approvals (including under the Competition Act (Canada)), court approvals, required consents and other customary closing conditions. Assuming the requisite approvals are received and other conditions are met or waived, the transaction is expected to be completed in early April
- H&R and KingSett are entitled to an aggregate all-cash break fee of $100 million in certain circumstances, including the acceptance by Primaris of an unsolicited superior proposal from a third party

- H&R is entitled to receive customary deal protection provisions including a right to match any superior proposal that is received by Primaris on an unsolicited basis
- No acquisition, disposition or property management fees shall be payable to H&R's property manager with respect to this transaction or for any future acquisition of enclosed shopping centres in Canada
- Holders of Primaris convertible debentures, prior to closing, will be entitled to convert their debentures in accordance with their terms and participate in the arrangement on the same basis as other unitholders and following closing, will be entitled to receive H&R Units upon conversion based on the exchange ratio contemplated by the transaction
- The circular to be mailed to Primaris unitholders will describe the material Canadian federal income tax considerations associated with the transaction. Primaris unitholders are urged to carefully review these tax considerations and to consult their own tax advisors to determine the particular tax effects to them of the transaction, having regard to their own particular circumstances

Primaris Independent Committee

Canaccord Genuity, a financial advisor to the Primaris Independent Committee, has provided the Board of Trustees of Primaris with an opinion to the effect that, as of the date of the opinion and based upon and subject to the limitations and qualifications therein, the consideration to be received under the Amended Agreement is fair, from a financial point of view, to Primaris unitholders.

The Independent Committee carefully considered a number of factors, including the terms of the transaction, the assets and business of H&R, the outcome of the global search process conducted, including the Independent Committee's belief that it is very unlikely that a superior offer will emerge for all the outstanding units of Primaris, and the opinion of Canaccord Genuity in recommending the transaction to the Board of Trustees of Primaris.

Based in part on the recommendation of the Independent Committee and the other factors noted herein, the Board of Trustees of Primaris determined that the consideration to be received by Primaris unitholders under the Amended Agreement is fair, from a financial point of view, and it would be in the best interests of Primaris to enter into the Amended Agreement.

Management of H&R believes that funds from operations is a meaningful measure of operating performance. Readers are encouraged to refer to H&R's combined MD&A for further discussion of this non-GAAP measure."
